'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Richmond on a foggy night, or foggy morning would delight the heart of a man from London—where fog is fog.

The other morning, for instance, it was so foggy that one could barely see 20 feet ahead. Cars, lights glowing dim and murky, would come out of the white haze and then disappear, the red tail light swallowed up in the mist in a split second.

Under the street lights on Macdonald avenue, one could see the wet, slippery pavements for a few seconds. An early riser stood leaning against one of the light posts, waiting for an early street car.

Newsboys, huddled in huge coats and makinaws, rode their bicycles down the street, in constant danger of being struck by a none to careful driver.

A street car, its bell clanging, its headlight a hazy mass, waddled down the middle of the avenue slowly, the motorman trying to pierce the white wall.

A garbage truck, accompanied by smells and clatters, puffed down a side street. One of the men alighted and groped toward a back yard. A dog barked, and one gained the impression that he was tired and wet.

Cars parked during the night were covered with a film of fog and water.

This train holdup in Alameda county yesterday morning will be filling the papers for the next couple of days.

More work for the reporters—and better reading for the public.

LEGION BALL HERE TONIGHT

The twelfth anniversary of the signing of peace will be celebrated at the ball to be given tonight at East Shore park by the Richmond American Legion post.

Painstaking preparations have been made by five committees in order to make the affair one of the most successful ever given by the local post.

Music will be furnished this evening by the post's All-Legion orchestra, led by Denny Shaw. The pavilion has been decorated appropriately for the occasion.

Preparations for the affair have progressed under the general direction of George Tandy. Five committees have been working incessantly for several weeks in preparation for the event.

The reception committee includes: H. R. Burt, Dr. A. B. Hinkley, J. J. Barry, R. S. Crose, H. D. Baker, L. B. Sear, Everett Cohen, J. T. Nabett, George Imbach, C. E. Seger, T. N. Calfee, H. J. Simons, Thomas M. Carlson and R. Tillman.

Members of the decoration committee are: E. W. Viles, J. E. Slatton, R. D. Small, R. Outman, W. Richardson and H. Johnston.

The serving of refreshments will be directed by K. A. Papadakis and R. Outman. Hats and overcoats will be checked by H. Swearingen and J. A. Gage.

The ticket committee includes: W. Outman, O. A. Thompson, C. A. Dexter, C. W. St. John and W. A. Vickery.

Many Firms Give To Community Chest

With many firms reporting 100 percent subscriptions to the Community Chest, and individuals giving substantial sums, the appeal to finance the six Richmond welfare agencies is progressing steadily toward its goal.

This was the report yesterday at the second report luncheon by the down town divisions headed by George E. Barnett and George Thornton.

The number of business houses whose owners and employees have all given to the fund indicates the interest taken in the movement and speaks well for the success of the effort, according to Chest leaders at the luncheon.

In the list are the Bank of America, Alberts, Inc., Fisher Cash Grocery, Corrie and Schapiro, Mechanics Bank, A. L. Paulsen, Liberty Market, Andrews News Agency and the Tom Kenney cigar store.

Workers at the luncheon the second to be held by the business divisions, reported additional subscriptions, bringing the grand total for the campaign to date up to more than $5000.

It was estimated that the work of soliciting in the down town district is considerably less than half done, and the substantial amounts will still be forthcoming from that quarter. Many of the down town solicitors who have been working have not yet turned in reports, according to W. W. Scott general campaign chairman.

NOTE TELLS OF MURDER PLANS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—UP—A plot to assassinate "Scarface Al" Capone, principal figure in hundreds of underworld murder stories, some mythical and many true, dramatically became public tonight.

Although Capone had lived in steel lined rooms, hidden in armor-plated automobiles and walked in fear these many years since his name first became symbolic of all that is unlawful, no plans to put him on the well known gangster "spot" ever before have reached the public ear.

This first authenticated evidence of murderous revolt against the pudgy liquor, vice and gambling king was revealed by Judge John H. Lyle, gangster nemesis who gained nationwide notice recently when he inaugurated a campaign to arrest 26 of Chicago's best known "public enemies" as common vagrants.

Plot Learned
Judge Lyle learned of the plot from letters obtained in raids upon the two luxurious apartments of "Terrible Terry" Druggan, drifter and young man, who made a million dollars as a post-prohibition brewer, only to be caught in Judge Lyle's vagrancy net. When Druggan failed to appear in court to answer the vagrancy charges, Judge Lyle forfeited Druggan's $10,000 bond and ordered the raids upon his apartments. Letters found by the searchers indicated that Druggan had business contacts with bootleggers and other shady characters from Los Angeles to New York.

One of the letters, written to Druggan by a notorious gangster, offered to "take care" of the "big boy," and that interested Judge Lyle particularly.

Gun Found
"Take Care" means in underworld parlance, murder, and nothing else, and "big boy" is the respectful way Chicago's gunmen refer to Capone.

In addition to the letters, the raiders found a loaded revolver in Druggan's suite at the Morrison hotel and a submachine gun with ammunition at his palatial south side apartment. They also found records of sales made to 732 saloons, resorts and gambling houses during the days Druggan was skyrocketing his fortune via the illicit beer route.

Phil Lee and his workers in El Cerrito will also take the field next Monday for an intensive canvass of one week.

Mrs. J. P. Cassidy has been named chairman for Kensington Park and Berkeley Park, the two residential districts on the hills near the Berkeley line. She has named as her captains Mrs. H. W. Miller, Mrs. W. D. Brille, Mrs. P. W. Dunyon, Mrs. A. Rowtham, Mrs. I. Schreiner and Mrs. Mabel Davis.

The down town divisions and the central committee will meet for a joint report luncheon at the hotel Monday noon. It is hoped that at this luncheon the major portion of the work of both these divisions will be completed, and that only minor details will remain to be cleaned up during next week.

The present plan, according to Scott, is to end the campaign at the close of next week.

Definite plans for the entertainment have not yet been made and will not be completed until the known number of men who will attend have been received.

Rexroad was a chaplain in the 91st division, and all residents of this area who were in that outfit during the war have been extended a special invitation to meet him.

Candidate Beaten In Election Fight

DENVER, Nov. 7.—UP—Lee Castle, Democratic candidate who was defeated for the state legislature Tuesday, is suffering from a fractured skull incurred in a fight with a man and a woman three days before election, it was revealed today.

The pair, he'd communicated, were arrested Thursday when relatives of Castle informed police of the attack upon him. No cause has been advanced for the fight.

ATTEMPT TO FLOAT SHIP FROM ROCKS

PESCADERO, Nov. 7.—UP—Defiant against rapidly greying skies and an increasing wind, 45 members of the crew of the Richfield tanker Tamlahua refused to abandon the ship tonight.

The sailors decided to remain aboard until high tide at midnight, when another attempt was to be made to free the ship from the rocks that had held it fast for 24 hours.

All day and part of last night the weary crew, lashed by stinging spray and cold winds, stuck to their posts on the stranded ship, seeking to aid rescue vessels in their efforts to pull the tanker from the grip of Pescadero reef.

Time after time one of the tugs or Coast Guard cutters standing by succeeded in getting a line around the Tamlahua, only to have their labors go for naught when the heavy, swells and strain on the line whipped it free again.

Even at noon today, when the Pacific assumed a temporary calmness, and high tide came to the aid of the sailors' efforts to loosen the grip of the jagged rocks and sand on the vessel, were futile.

Officials of the Richfield Oil company, owners of the tanker, were still optimistic of eventually saving the ship. It was learned that the powerful salvage tug Peacock was chartered at San Pedro and was speeding up the coast to aid the three Red Stack tugs now at the scene.

Little Hope
Should the Peacock arrive before increasing storm conditions necessitate abandoning the ship, it would be a small triumph.

Anniversary Of Air Flight Today

First two men to ascend into the air in lighter than air craft made their ascension 147 years ago today over territory in France. The balloon was attached to the ground by ropes and arose to a height of several hundred feet.

This was the information given by Americanization committee of Richmond American Legion last night.

Jean Francois Pilate de Rozier, and Gironde de Villedieu were the two men who led the ascent.

Several days later the first ascension in which the balloon was entirely free of the earth was made. The balloon went to a height of 500 feet, and descended approximately 9000 yards from the place of ascent. It was in the air between 20 and 25 minutes on this trip.

FIGHT BOARD IN QUARREL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—UP—Power of the California Boxing commission has been weakened by dissension between members of that body, Commissioner William Hanlon testified before the governor's committee investigating boxing conditions of this state here today.

Hanlon told Allen Bixby, director of the State Department of Veterans and Military Affairs, and four other members of the committee appointed by Gov. C. C. Young, that Commissioner Charles P. Traung and himself have often clashed over Trang's asserted leniency in lifting suspensions and returning fines.

"The suspension of fighters should be decided by the commission as a whole and not left to the whim of individual commissioners," Hanlon said.

He mentioned the Primo Carnera "scandal" at Oakland, declaring he was not consulted about it. "I was forced to endorse Trang's ruling in suspending Carnera and others connected with the fight," he said.

DEMOCRATS IN STATEMENT ON VOTE VICTORY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—UP—The seven highest men in the Democratic party issued a statement to the public tonight assuring the nation that the party's legislative leaders were "constructive but not reactionary" and that no general revision of the tariff will be attempted by them.

The statement followed President Hoover's only comment on the election. At his semi-weekly press conference, he smiled and said:

"The job for the country to concentrate on now is further measures of cooperation for economic recovery that is the only thing I have to say."

Signed Story

The Democratic leaders who signed the statement were Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, James M. Cox, of Ohio, 1920 presidential nominee; John W. Davis of West Virginia, 1924 nominee; Alfred E. Smith of New York, 1928 nominee; Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, senate leader; John N. Garner of Texas, house leader, and Chairman J. M. Jouett Shouse of the executive committee.

Woman Changes Name 3 Times

RENO, Nev., Nov. 7.—UP—A member of Reno's divorce colony had the unusual distinction of having three different legal names today.

Mrs. Joseph L. Rountree went into divorce court was granted a decree from the husband she married in Brooklyn in 1905. She left the courtroom as Miss Helen D. Burke, a maiden name returned to her by court order at her request.

Five minutes later Miss Burke became Mrs. Bullock by marrying Charles E. Bullock of New York, who had just been granted a divorce from Elizabeth P. Bullock on grounds of extreme cruelty.

Bullock's first marriage was also in Brooklyn, the ceremony being performed in 1917.

200 IN HUNT FOR FIVE ROBBERS

One of the greatest man hunts that the state of California has seen since Edward Hickman, the "Fox" was a fugitive, was in progress today, following the robbery of the Southern Pacific train No. 36 at the Nobel station near here in Alameda county early yesterday morning. More than $60,000 was taken.

GAIN SHOWN BY POSTOFFICE

More than $500 worth of business was done by Richmond postoffice during the past month than during October of 1929, reports released by Postmaster John A. Miller indicated.

Receipts for October of this year show $6602.04 collected while typically known peace workers, and same period of last year.

Figures released for the first part of the present month indicate that a gain will be found when the month ends over the business month of November, 1929. Total receipts for the year are: $55,800.63 while $55,155.61 was taken in during 1929.

Solon Will Ask Dry Law Repeal

RENO, Nev., Nov. 7.—UP—Congressman Samuel S. Arant of Nevada, today stood on a platform of revision of the 18th Amendment with control of liquor vested in congress.

Representative Arant, although classed as a liberal, formerly made no direct statement on the prohibition issue and the question was not raised in the campaign which culminated in his re-election Tuesday.

Immediately following the certainty of his election, he made public his position and declared he would assist in leading the fight for repeal.

"I am in favor of modification of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act to the extent that would permit the sale of liquor under a dispensary system," he said. "That will be my position when I return to Washington."

Fire Threatens Martinez Ranch

MARTINEZ, Nov. 7.—Fire which swept over approximately 100 acres near Thomas Hanna ranch in Alhambra valley today endangered an oil derrick, and required the work of approximately 100 men to control.

It was reported the fire started when brush being burned by Japanese near the Hanna ranch got out of control, and spread rapidly toward an oil derrick on William Edwards property before it was checked.

The men fighting the blaze backed to check the flames' progress.

HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDERS LOSE

The varsity eleven of Richmond Union High school went down to a 12 to 0 defeat before the Alameda High school gridgers yesterday afternoon at Neptune Beach in the final game of the Alameda County Athletic league 1930 football season.

The Richmond warriors held the Island City boys to a 0 to 0 tie until the final three minutes of play. Then Smith, Alameda back, crashed over on a line drive for a touchdown for the first score of the game. In the last minute of play, Nova, Alameda halfback, chided around center and made his way from the center of the field to behind the Richmond goal line for the final touchdown of the contest.

Shortly before Alameda's fatal last minute drive, Richmond swept down the field to Alameda's one foot line. Four times did the Richmond athletes plunge into the Alameda defense, and four times did the Alameda defense hold against the futile attacks of the visiting team. Richmond thus lost its finest chance to claim victory over Alameda yesterday afternoon.

During the first three quarters, both teams battled back and forth without either eleven winning any edge. Richmond marched down the field several times in spite of fierce Alamedan opposition, only to either fumble the pigskin and be thrown for a loss or be finally stopped and forced to punt. The two squads also continued to battle in this fashion during the final period until Alameda suddenly swept over for its two winning touchdowns.

Neither Alameda nor Richmond showed much brilliancy in yesterday's clash. Both squads showed many flaws in their make-up and fumbles and misplays marred the smoothness of the game. However, both elevens were fighting their hardest, and the contest was a real battle of the gridiron. The game possessed special interest to Alameda and Richmond in view of the fact that the outcome would decide who should occupy the cellar in the Alameda County Athletic league.

Yesterday's clash was Richmond Union High school's final gridiron effort of 1930.

The Richmond lineup in yesterday's contest included: Jullierat, Drexel, ends; Westman, Lilly, tackles; Hoeffler, Baxter, guards; Hall, center; Boschetti, quarterback; Masek, Snodgrass, quarterbacks; and Baskett, fullback; substitutes—Gerletti, Passoni, ends; Avilla, Ball, tackles; Horton, Perry, Robak, guards; Brignone, center; Stoddard, quarterback; G. Miller, R. Miller, halfbacks; and Aldo Bravin, fullback.

The Alameda lineup included: Calkins, Schleicher, ends; Van Nest, Brodsonson, tackles; Betterton, Stanton, guards; Hayden, center; Bordeaux, quarterback; Herbert, Beach, halfbacks and Smith, fullback.

Fight Decision Stirs Rumpus

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—UP—A decision faintly reminiscent of the "long count" in the Dempsey-Tunney bout here in 1927 and somewhat similar to the verdict by which Mickey Walker won the middleweight title from Tiger Flowers here in 1926 struck a discordant note in Chicago boxing circles today.

Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, N. Y., former light-heavyweight champion, gave King Levinsky, promising but crude Chicago youngster, a boxing lesson in a 10-round bout before some 20,000 persons at the Stadium last night only to have the officials give the decision to Levinsky.

Michael P. Corrigan, a Chicago fire marshal and one of the judges gave his vote to Slattery, scoring 61 points for Slattery, boy and 39 for Levinsky. Referee Norman McGarrity and Livingston E. Osborne, the other judge voted for Levinsky, each giving him 55 points to Slattery's 45.

The crowd staged an ugly demonstration after the decision was announced and police reserves were required to break up numerous fist fights among the spectators. Levinsky was booed out of the ring.

The decision last night left such a bad taste among Chicago boxing fans that hundreds of telephone calls to the Stadium today caused much criticism of that organization and many cancellations of tickets for future bouts.

It is believed that with the addition of a few more pounds the former Richmonder will be ready for a heavy season next year.

In addition the Cubs agreed to send three players to Los Angeles on option, next spring.

Baecht, "the iron man of baseball," was the outstanding pitcher of the Coast league last season. He won 26 games and lost 12, striking a total of 362 innings and striking out 187 men.

GENE TUNNEY BIG SUIT TO END

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—UP—Tim Mara's $405,000 breach-of-contract suit against Gene Tunney, based on the promoter's contention that he "straightened out angles" to make possible the fight in which Tunney won the world's heavyweight boxing title, drew near a close today in supreme court with both men claiming victory.

Standing within four feet of each other when court adjourned tonight both Tunney and Mara issued what might be called last-minute training camp statements.

"I haven't the slightest doubt," said Tunney, "but that the jury will decide in my favor."

"Will I win?" said Mara. "Well I should hope to kiss a pig!"

Mara also advised members of the press that, in his opinion, the testimony of Dudley Field Malone, noted lawyer, who appeared at the last minute for the defense, did not conform to his idea of the facts. Only Mara used far more colorful language in voicing the point.

The defense rested its case with Malone's testimony. An adjournment was taken to Monday morning, when two or three witnesses will be called in rebuttal. Then the lawyers will argue and the case will be placed in the jury's hands.

Tunney spent this morning on the witness stand, arguing, positively, for the most part, with Mara's heat lawyer, Martin W. Littleton.

Malone, in his testimony, simply corroborated Tunney's story of a conference, shortly after the Philadelphia fight, in which an attempt to settle the financial dispute was made.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Nov. 7.—UP—The Do-X, giant German flying boat, was scheduled to proceed to Calshot, Eng., at 10 p. m. tomorrow, weather permitting, in the next leg of its proposed transatlantic flight to New York.

The great flying machine made a short flight over Holland today, taking up 20 passengers. The Dutch have been amazed at the size and performances of the immense craft.

GRID CONTESTS ON COAST DRAW INTEREST

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—UP—Powerful offensives possessed by football teams of Washington State, Oregon, University of Southern California and University of Washington should enable them to retain leadership of the Pacific coast conference Saturday.

The most likely victim of an upset in the four conference games to be played is believed to be the University of Washington. Stanford will give the Huskies of Washington a good battle and it appears to be the best match of the day.

Sharing equal attention, however, is the best team between U. S. C. and California's Bears. They meet in Los Angeles with U. S. C. favored to win by two touchdowns.

Oregon Undeclared
Washington State and Oregon, only undeclared teams in the Pacific coast, are not expected to slump although both might lose through over confidence.

The outstanding factor of the game between Washington State and Idaho at Moscow is that the schools are only a few miles apart and this always results in a good quarrel on the gridiron. Oregon opposes the University of California at Los Angeles in Eugene, and, while the southern teams have the best team they have ever entered in conference competition, the Webfeet should have at least a three touchdown advantage.

Trojans Favored
Most conjecture surrounds the encounter at Los Angeles. This is the third year the Trojans have been made favorites over California. In 1928 the game ended in a scoreless tie and last year the Bears accomplished one of the most astounding upsets of this region by winning 14 to 7.

Never has U. S. C. beaten Stanford and California in the same year, but several weeks ago the Trojans gave Stanford the worst trimming either team had received in many years of competition between them. Furthermore California has started weaker than last season and has lost its best two quarterbacks through injury. Chief hope of California supporters is that the Bears will put up a superior fight and their star, Henry Schaldach, will outplay the U. S. C. ace, Marshall Duffield and Orv Mohler.

The Caruans of Stanford will start the same team against Washington that went against U. S. C., featuring Phil Moffatt, a leading scorer of the coast. There is a question whether Merle Hartford, Washington's all American back, will be at peak form and completely recovered from an infected leg. If he is, Washington, conceded a better line than Stanford, will probably outplay Stanford, but this need not mean the northerners will win because Stanford depends upon an occasional long pass to overcome such odds.

Another interesting game will be played here Sunday, St. Mary's of Moraga meeting the Olympic club.

Oregon State and Montana are idle this week.

Coast League In Deadlock In Election

SCAR FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—UP—Presidency of the Pacific coast league was retained by Harry A. Williams late today on a technicality, directors of the circuit adjourning until December 1 when it became evident that an election deadlock could not be broken.

Williams was receiving four votes and Cal Ewing of Oakland was being given the same number when it was decided to close the meeting. Therefore Williams will remain president until the issue can be definitely decided.

Five votes are required for election.

There were ten ballots. At first Ewing received support from the Missions, Oakland and Hollywood. Seattle was voting for John Sullivan. In the last five ballots Seattle endorsed Ewing. Through-out the voting Williams was favored by Los Angeles, Sacramento, Portland and the San Francisco Seals.

Vice-presidents named were Bob Miller, Oakland, Wade Kilfefer, Missions, and Lew Moreing.

Middle Western Football Games Are Interesting

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—UP—With three big ten teams and Notre Dame campaigning in the east, Saturday's middle western football schedule is the lightest of the season. Northwestern meets Indiana and Purdue opposes Chicago in the only conference games, with Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota meeting outside opponents.

Northwestern's clash with Indiana occupies the headline position on the program, chiefly because the Hoosiers always have been a "jinx" opponent for Northwestern. On "dope" Northwestern's undefeated team, victor over Tulane, Ohio State, Illinois, Centre and Minnesota, should score an easy victory, but the same thing has been true for the past three years and each year Indiana turned in its best game of the year to knock the Wildcats out of the conference race.

Although Indiana has been beaten by Southern Methodist, Notre Dame and Minnesota, Hoosier supporters believe Coach Page will have his team "keyed" for the homecoming battle and hope for victory.

The Purdue-Chicago game is regarded as a "set up" for Purdue and Maroon fans will consider it a "moral victory" if Stagg's team holds Purdue to a low score. Purdue still has a chance for big ten honors, if both Northwestern and Michigan lose one of their remaining games and will take no chances of defeat.

The Iowa-Marquette game promises the best competition of the day. Iowa started the season with little hopes of success but Burlington has developed a strong club and last week's triumph over the previously undefeated Detroit team has given the Hawkeyes confidence. Marquette is one of the nation's few remaining undefeated and united teams and because of its record is a slight favorite to win.

Notre Dame Stars To Meet In Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—UP—Coach Knute Rockney has recruited a number of Notre Dame's greatest stars to play Thanksgiving Day morning in a charity game with an "all-star" team against former Northwestern University stars. Most of the Notre Dame men still are active in football as coaches, but several have turned to other fields.

The game will be part of the

TRACK MEN OF HIGH SCHOOL WIN MEET

The Richmond Union high school track squad yesterday afternoon triumphed over the runners of Alameda high school in a meet held during the last time period of the Richmond-Alameda football contest at Neptune Beach. Richmond won the meet by a score of 73 to 92.

Al Cezario, sensation Richmond long distance runner, captured first place in the hotly contested meet, finishing about two yards ahead of his nearest opponent, Rice of Alameda. When Cezario and Rice entered the Neptune stadium after traversing approximately more than a mile through the streets of Alameda, they were neck-and-neck, however, as they circled around the stadium for the final time, Cezario gradually drew ahead of the Alameda runner, and sped across the tape for first place, still going strong.

Schuyler Albert of Richmond ran a steady race to finish in third position. Grover Johnson of Richmond finished in fourth place after running a gallant race. Paria of Richmond won fifth place; Jacobson of Richmond finished in sixth position; and Vani also of Richmond crossed the tape in seventh position.

The course covered approximately a mile and a half. The runners started out in the Neptune stadium, continued on down Encinal avenue to the stadium and finished on the opposite side of the stadium from that on which they started.

The smallest score was the winning score in yesterday's meet as pointage was added to the account of a man in the order in which he finished. For example, Cezario was awarded one point, Rice, two points and Albert three.

Yesterday's meet was the second meet run this fall by members of the Richmond Union high school Cross Country Running club. The local athletes lost their first cross-country run to Tamalpais high school last Saturday by a score of 27 to 28. Cezario also placed first in the event.

Several more meets are being arranged by the officials of the local high school club for the present fall semester.

Football doubleheader, West Virginia and Oregon State meeting in the college game. All receipts will go to the Shriners' hospitals for the crippled children.

WEDDING WILL FEATURE FAIR

OROVILLE, Nov. 7.—UP—A public wedding will again be the featured attraction at the California Orange and Olive Exposition, which will open here on Nov. 25. Officials already have broadcast for a bride and groom to be the principals in the beautiful ceremony which was witnessed last year by 7000 people.

Every effort is being made to make this event a memorable one to the happy pair selected to be honored. The wedding dress and ring for the bride, as well as all of the bridal attendants, are provided by the exposition. Beautiful music and flowers with a wedding procession down the length of the great building which houses the colorful exhibits is a spectacle which people come many miles to witness. The bride is given away in marriage by Mayor W. T. Baldwin. This has been his official duty since the wedding first became an annual feature of the fair.

Numerous replies are received every year in answer to advertisements for the exposition bride and groom. The committee was unable to decide between the many attractive couples last year and, as a result, a double wedding was held.

Husband Denies Hiring Slayer

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—UP—Emory Ellis today repudiated in the city jail his confession that he hired Benjamin Franklin Brown, an unobtrusive glass molder to slay his estranged wife, Merle Ellis, 22.

Ellis, who previously had admitted paying Brown two dollars to commit the crime, which occurred last Sunday as his wife lay sleeping with their infant son, now holds that Brown is "trying to put me in the middle on the murder and I'll beat the rope." Brown has given no indication of changing his admission that he committed the murder. Ellis and Brown were indicted yesterday.

U. C. Extension Courses Used By Many Adults

BERKELEY, Nov. 7.—Some 5543 adults in northern California are enrolled in classes given by the University of California Extension division, for the fall period, according to figures released by Boyd B. Rakeshaw, acting director of the division.

Courses of instruction in education, English, economics and public speaking lead in the number of enrollments. Other subjects that showed increased enrollments include: art, psychology, Spanish, German, French, mathematics, science and engineering.

"Classes are organized when persons anywhere in the state indicate their interest in the same subject," states Rakeshaw. "There is no requirement for admission to a class save the ability to pursue the work with profit."

Close to three hundred classes in a wide variety of subjects are being organized for the January schedule, it is announced.

R. Schotky, Merced Republican, won the state senatorship in the Merced-Madera district by a 21-vote margin over E. G. Adams, Livingston publisher and former assemblyman.

Returns from Shuteys precinct in this county, the last to report, failed to change the totals materially, increasing Schotky's lead by two votes. The vote from the mountain precinct was 14 for Schotky and 12 for Adams.

The total vote in Madera and Merced counties was 5937 for Schotky and 5906 for Adams, exclusive of about 4 absentee ballots, which are not expected to affect the situation.

Madame Curie Has Birthday; Works All Day

PARIS, Nov. 7.—UP—Madame Marie Curie, on her sixty-third birthday, after months of patient work in her tiny laboratory, has come to the conclusion that radium, which has proved successful in cancer treatment, cannot exert curative powers on other, known human ailments. She is believed, however, to be near important new discoveries.

In the future, Mme. Curie and her assistants will concentrate their efforts in generalizing the use of radium in cancer treatment. The greatest handicap at present is the fact that one ton of pitchblende produces one gram of radium, and makes the remedy extremely expensive.

Madame Curie did not halt her work to observe her birthday today, but continued to develop a phase of experimentation which has attracted her interest recently. It is the separation of more unknown elements from pitchblende. For several weeks the French scientists have awaited an announcement by Mme. Curie that she has discovered new elements in the black uranium oxide, from which she and her late husband extracted radium and polonium. It has been said that she is on the verge of another important discovery.

Her birthday, however, was like any other day according to her friends, who said she planned to spend 10 hours with test tubes and microscopes. Despite her discoveries, she has not grown rich. The government has furnished her laboratory. The laboratory's latest development is a "peaceful cannon" which is expected to win many battles in the war on disease. It is a microbe "gun" and shoots X-ray ammunition at germs.

Mme. Curie was said to be in splendid health, despite the fact that she works almost constantly. The radiations that actually comprise the rays of the "gun" are called "quanta" and when they strike the microbes a spontaneous combustion occurs, throwing off a great quantity of electrons. The first discharge kills the weakest of the germs immediately, and additional "shots" kill the others.

HOOVER TALK OF DRY LAW AWAITED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—UP—President Hoover is preparing to submit to congress shortly after it convenes in December a message pertaining to prohibition that may alter the existing situation considerably, according to authoritative indications today.

Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock has been suddenly ordered home from the west to furnish data needed by the president. In his budget message to Congress, President Hoover is expected to ask an increased appropriation of about $2,000,000 with which Col. Woodcock can add 500 new agents to the federal dry army.

Supplementing any message transmitted to congress by President Hoover on this issue, the Wickersham law enforcement commission is expected to be ready with a comprehensive report giving the results of its two years of deliberation.

It is reported that the Wickersham commission is preparing to recommend legal manufacture of beer.

Legal brewing, it has been estimated, would place approximately $1,000,000,000 in circulation. The treasury department will receive upwards of $150,000,000 in taxes.

Law Commission Drafts Report

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—UP—Sitting around a table in a conference room where many witnesses have stated the various aspects of the prohibition problem, President Hoover's law enforcement commission today tried to draft a report for congress on this subject.

There were no witnesses and unofficially it was said none are scheduled for future sessions.

Home Of Negro 'Boss' Bombed

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—UP—The home of George Brown, Negro politician, was partially destroyed early today by a bomb and his son, Sherman Brown, 32, injured slightly. "DOUGH BOYS" UPROARIOUS COMEDY

War in all its funny angles—and the picture proves that there are thousands of them—is the theme of Buster Keaton's newest talking comedy, now playing at the Fox-California Theater. "Dough Boys" hasn't a dull moment in it what with laughs and thrills, thrills and laughs, and a love story in between.

The new Metro Goldwyn Mayer picture shows Keaton as a millionaire's son who enlists for the late unpleasantness. His troubles in training camp and at the trenches make a rip-roaring comedy of errors, with cannon to right of him, to left of him and a hard-boiled top sergeant always behind him.

Keaton plays the redoubtable Elmer Stuyvesant, and blunders through the war to come out a hero in spite of himself. Sally Eilers is charming as the heroine, his sweetheart, in the entertainment unit.

Cliff Edwards and his trusty ukulele come in for plenty of comedy, too, and Cliff warbles "Sing" for the edification of one and all. Edward Brophy plays the tough sergeant and extracts much comedy from the role, and Pitz Katz, Victor Potel and others are in the fun brigade. Frank Mayo is convincing as the captain and Arnold Korff as the German valet who turns German soldier.

Edward Sedwick directed the picture and appears in the picture too as the camp cook in a brief sequence, showing that a comedy director can also be comedian. He incidentally wrote and composed "Mister Military Man," the stirring march song which the soldiers sing in the production.

The riotous entertainment at the front with Keaton's antics as a volunteer member of the show and the screamingly funny adventures of Buster and Sally in "No Man's Land" are a few of the hilarious highlights.

Not only is "Dough Boys" the most elaborate Keaton picture to date, but it is one of the swiftest and most hilarious pieces of entertainment in many moons.

DISCOVERY OF NEW RAYS BY SAVANT SEEN

LONDON, Nov. 6.—UP—The existence of "Growth Rays" by means of which the growth of human beings, animals and plants could be stimulated, has yet to be proved, but evidence of its existence is increasing daily, according to Professor A. M. Low, British scientist.

I believe it is still too soon to announce the discovery of what one might describe as "allopathic" rays, although research work in this direction so far only confirms the belief which I myself have held for many years—based on my termentation experiments—that life may be affected by both known and unknown rays.

Low spoke in an exclusive interview with the United Press during which he discussed the possibility (suggested in a recent article in the scientific weekly "Armchair Science") that certain rays may stimulate growth.

"The existence of 'Growth Rays' has been suspected for many years past," he explained, "and experiments have been conducted and are being conducted which would tend to confirm the suspicion. Several years ago, for instance, it was shown that the growing root of an onion gave off something which could travel through air and increase the multiplication of cells in another onion root."

The effect of the suspected rays is all the more remarkable, he continued, because, he said, even if a plate of quartz is placed between the roots the action persists. Nor does water interfere with the progress of the rays, thick glass or gelatin being the only thing which seems to affect it.

MEN OF NORTH TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

Willard Mack, prolific writer of stage and screen thrillers, is responsible for the story of "Men of the North," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture opening tomorrow at the Fox-California Theater, which alone insures it of containing novel situations, suspense and an extremely dramatic climax with an unexpected ending.

This time Mack has chosen the Canadian Northwest for his locale and has built his narrative around the pursuit of a fugitive from justice by the Mounted Police. Among the unusual details are races on sleds and dogsleds, an exciting fight in a snow-bound cabin and the filming of an avalanche which plays an important part in the outcome of the plot. The picture, which was filmed in the Sierras, abounds in picturesque scenery of the North country.

Heading the cast of the production are Gilbert Roland and Barbara Leonard. Other players include Arnold Korff, Robert Elliott, George Davis, Nena Quartaro and Robert Graves, Jr. The picture was directed by Hal Roach, producer of Laurel-Hardy and "Our Gang" comedies, who deserted the field of laugh-making to show his hand at serious drama.

accomplish the downfall of any political figure, but to resist and to correct a situation that had become well-nigh intolerable. The minority in the senate and the house of representatives fought bravely and sincerely to prevent the enactment of a tariff bill which was not only the apothecary of bad economy but was doubly dangerous because of the conditions in the country. Certainly with the nation in the throes of a ghastly business depression it was not time to place a greater burden upon consumers and an additional handicap on business.

"Despite the opposition of the Democrats and the Progressive wing of the Republican party and over the protests of leading economists of the nation, that bill was forced on the country by the brutal strength of numbers and was signed by the president. Some of the effects of its unwise, unjust, and uneconomic provisions are already apparent. It is delaying the recovery of many industries through its destruction of our foreign markets, not only because of the hostility it has engendered but as well by the retaliatory tariffs it has incited.

"Of course the leaders of Democracy are thrilled by the demonstration of confidence the country has given. But they and the others who must now assume legislative responsibility do not regard the present occasion as one for celebration or for self-gratification. The responsibilities bestowed by the election are too grave for mere manifestations of exaltation. The country faces a grave situation. There is profit neither to it nor to the victors in the election in dwelling on the causes or responsibilities for this condition. The task ahead is to repair the damage, to get the ship of state back on even keel and to go ahead on a course which will bring us out of the tempest with the least disturbance and the greatest speed consistent with safety.

JUNIOR HIGH SHOW IS HELD

A large crowd witnessed the presentation of the "Pincely Prato" given by the Torchbearers of the Longfellow Junior high school last night at the Roosevelt auditorium.

Through the efforts of Herbert Hunn, principal of the school, a novel lighting effect was used for the presentation.

Scenes for the play were constructed in the shop of the school under the direction of M. R. Johnson.

The boys' glee club of the school assisted in the presentation, and acted as members of the crew of the ship.

The cast of characters for the production, which was directed by Miss Irma Kruse, included Henry Creeger, Allen Arno, Al Barick, Billie Harrison, Joseph Duesdicker, and others.

China Looks To U. S. For Trade

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—UP—America has now succeeded to Great Britain's former position as the predominant foreign trade influence in China. J. B. Powell declares in his China Weekly Review article.

"China now looks to Washington for tips on the international political situation, rather than to London," the article says.

"China looks to Wall Street for future financing and to America for technical advice. Large British public utilities in China, facing a none-too-bright future, look to the United States for purchasers."

Again and again, in a voice growing ever weaker, she reiterated the accusation. Then she died.

HIGH SCHOOL PREPARES PLAY

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" is the Richmond high school play to be presented by the student Nov. 11. Rehearsals have been held since the beginning of the semester, and one of the best dramatic productions ever given by talent in the school is expected to be witnessed in this play.

Aunt Mary is portrayed by Vuokko Carlson, a junior student. Edwin Poole is the nephew of Aunt Mary. The kin is continually in trouble and seeks financial aid from his aunt.

Finally the nephew is disinherited because of a suit for breach of promise brought by the "Girl from Kalamazoo," who is portrayed by Marguerite Russell. Aunt Mary finally goes to the city where she is enthralled by its ways. She becomes a modern woman, and the change portrayed by the play is the highlight of the production.

Record Sum To Be Spent For Public Works

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Expenditure of $450,000,000 in public works was voted Tuesday, according to a United Press compilation of state and local returns on proposals for bond issues and other levies.

Reports so far, indicate the voters rejected $27,000,000 in local bond issues, and perhaps Arizona's $10,000,000 proposal for highways.

President Hoover's unemployment relief plan included reliance upon state and municipal governments' action in providing increased public works and his emergency committee on employment issued an appeal for the voters to consider carefully the various local proposals.

The ambitious two-year program of Huey P. Long, Democratic governor and senator-elect in Louisiana, was the largest project approved. Long hopes to have every phase of his program started by Jan. 1, providing employment for 20,000 workers for two years.

Applying Long's estimate to the rest of the issues voted, they would provide work for more than 50,000 for two years, or 100,000 for one year, but the varying length of the building programs make any exact estimate impossible.

BITTER FIGHT OVER CHILD ENDED

RENO, Nev. Nov. 7.—UP—The long and bitter court fight of a Brooklyn millionaire, Ralph Elsmann, former gas magnate, and his wife, Beatrice Elsmann, for custody of their minor child, entered the last chapter of its acrimonious history today when attorneys for each side began final arguments before District Judge George Bartlett.

The case was an aftermath of the recent divorce of the couple in which Elsmann was granted sole custody of the child, Ralph Elsmann, Jr., their only child. Elsmann petitioned the court in 1928 to modify the court order to allow his former wife to visit the child for one hour every day for one month each year at the Elsmann home in Franktown. Last year Elsmann came before the court again to seek sole custody and prevent Mrs. Elsmann from seeing the child at any time.

The hearing on this plea began last February and has been in the courts almost continuously since. The testimony thus far taken comprises 2600 pages in six volumes and is one of the most bitterly fought cases in the history of Washoe county district court.

Mrs. Elsmann, mother of the child, was ill in her hotel room early today, but she was able to attend the hearing.

Man Wounded In Grape Battle

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—UP—Four spectacular murders and a shooting that may yet prove fatal have testified in the past five days to the intensive competition among grape racketeers for the trade of thousands of amateur and semi-professional vintners throughout the city.

The latest casualty was Joseph Rambatur, shot down today in an uptown street as he was walking toward Fifth avenue. A motor car drew up at the curb in the approved manner of putting on the spot, a saved off shotgun and rifles were discharged and Rambatur slumped to the sidewalk. He was reported in a critical condition tonight at Harlem hospital.

San Pablo avenue. One of the men waved at him and Ligon waved back. The officer said that he thought they might have been friends or acquaintances of his.

This occurred before the robbery was reported to the Richmond police.

If it were the bandits whom Ligon saw they evidently retraced their route and are headed for the valley regions, police expressed belief last night.

Shells Found
The discovery of the machine gun shells leads to the belief that the bandits were the ones who stole a machine gun and several boxes of cartridges from the Los Angeles national guard armory last week.

The police are attempting to trace the ammunition, in hopes of getting a line on the bandits.

The ripped mail pouch was found some time after the robbery in west Berkeley by a patrolman. As a result the entire city was scoured for traces of the men, who were driving a stolen Studebaker machine.

Pictures Inspected
Every clue to the holdup was being closely studied by police officers last night. Hopes were held that perhaps fingerprints might be discovered.

Pictures of every man arrested in the past year by Stockton and Sacramento police were being sent to Oakland, in hopes that the bandits might be identified by the victims of the robbery.

Up to a late hour last night the exact amount of the loot taken by the five bandits could not be learned.

$57,000 Taken
Thought postal officials were yet to make any disclosure it was learned that the federal reserve bank of San Francisco had sent $57,500 by registered mail. Of this approximately $25,000 was to have gone to a bank at Pittsburg to take care of the weekly payroll of Columbia Steel Mills coast branch; the remainder of the currency was to have gone to banks along the bayshore. How much actual money was represented in the daily "run" of registered letters, also taken, will not be known for several days.

The robbery was well planned and executed by the quintet, police declared. Every part each man played in the affair was well drilled before the robbery was executed.

Police reconstruct the robbery as follows:
When the train left the Oakland mole at 7:05 a. m. yesterday morning, a bandit waited near the Berkeley station. When the train slowed for the station, he leaped aboard. Trainmen saw the lone man climb up over the tender, just as the train pulled out for Contra Costa county.

Heard Noise
A few minutes later R. E. Lemery, the engineer of the speeding train heard a noise on the roof of a baggage car back of him. He turned to stare into the muzzles of two pistols, held in the hands of a masked bandit.

"He covered me and S. E. O'Brien, the fireman, with two guns," Lemery told police. "Then he climbed over the cab, jammed one of his guns into my ribs and it hurt, and made me slow down at a station."

At this point four men huddled in a blue Studebaker sedan, a new model, waiting for the train. When it stopped, the four men, all masked, climbed out of the machine, got over a barbed wire fence and boarded the train. Some of the men held shotguns, others light machine guns.

Crew Lined Up
One robber went to the baggage car as soon as the train had stopped, covered W. H. Dana the baggage clerk, and ordered him to keep quiet.

Another bandit forced the engineer and fireman to get out of the engine cab and line up at one side of the track, where he covered them.

The other members of the gang ran to the door of the mail and express car. Threatening to blow up the car, they ordered John McCintock, the clerk, to come out, where they lined him up with Lemery and O'Brien.

While the two men covered Dana and the others of the crew, the three other bandits went through the car, rifling or removing 10 or 15 sacks of mail and express. Some of the sacks were sorted and rifled in the car. Others were hauled away and piled into the back of the machine.

Brakemen Held
In the meantime Conductor Fred Garrett and Brakemen P. Hansen and R. Muldoon had gotten off of the train to see what the trouble was. They were immediately covered by the bandits and forced to line up with the other members of the train crew.

Warning the members of the train crew to stand where they were, the five men, loaded down with loot, climbed the fence and got into the machine, and started for Oakland.

After the bandits had driven away, the train crew immediately took their places and the train proceeded to Stege, where the robbery was reported to the station agent there.

Car Stolen
The blue Studebaker sedan used in the holdup was stolen from an Oakland garage several nights ago. It is registered to Mrs. Velma Lane, Orland postmistress.

Lytton Robitson, night attendant at the garage, told police today that two men entered the garage, covered him with guns and ordered him to keep quiet. They then stole the machine and drove rapidly away.

Detectives found a piece of fishing twine tied along the right-of-way fence post for 60 feet at the scene of the holdup. This was thought to be a marker for the holdup men in the automobile, as the train was brought to a halt midway of the stretch of twine.

Money Dropped
In attempting to hurry away, one of the bandits dropped a large sack containing $1000 in silver dollars, consigned to the Bank of America branch at Dos Palos from the Federal Reserve bank at San Francisco. This find was made by Special Agents J. Mahoney and D. McSweeney of the Southern Pacific; L. Mayriss, chief clerk of the western division of the railroad and Chief of Police John Glavinovich of Albany.

An empty holster was also found by Glavinovich. This holster was believed to have been dropped by one of the bandits.

Investigators declare that one of the bandits was apparently left handed. Witnesses said that he tossed the mail bags out of the car with his left hand, while his right hand held a pistol. His face was covered by a handkerchief mask.

Bandit Suspect
This fact led to the belief that this bandit may have been the one who was wounded when Constable Jerry MacDonald was killed in the robbery of the Rodeo bank last year.

Dan O'Connell, chief of the Southern Pacific railroad police expressed belief yesterday that the gang responsible for the holdup was the same that perpetrated the McAvoy train robbery, declaring "it was the same train, the same payroll and a similar location."

The McAvoy robbery, which occurred on June 22, 1929, but later the McAvoy theory was abandoned.

Boy Saw Four
The four men waiting in the car were seen by Vincent Lombardi, 14 year old El Cerrito boy. Young Lombardi said he was going to the bay marshes at about 6:45 yesterday morning to hunt ducks when he saw the four men sitting in the car. One of the men, the youth said, was talking in a loud voice saying, "We should have come two hours earlier when it was foggy."

Young Lombardi said he thought they were duck hunters.

The entire holdup was witnessed by V. O. Gnaga, who keeps a store at 415 San Pablo avenue. Gnaga was looking for driftwood when he saw the train slowing up for the stop.

Gnaga's story is as follows:
"I watched, and saw some sort of struggle going on in the cab, and at the same time I saw a big car waiting near the tracks. There was a man with a gun on the cab, and he forced the fireman and engineer to stop the train, then waved them out of the cab, across some flatcars that were standing there, and took them behind the little station house, where he guarded them with his gun while the robbery took place."

Opened Car
"Then immediately, two more men left the auto, jumped on the flat cars and opened the door of the express car. One bandit entered the car, and he herded the mail clerk out with a revolver and stood him up behind the station house with the engineer and fireman."

"The bandit who was herding the clerk came back and jumped into the express car again, where he tossed out mail sacks to the other man, who tossed them up the bank toward the waiting auto. The men seemed to know exactly which sacks they wanted, and they worked quickly."

"As the bags were tossed up the bank, the fourth bandit, who had been sitting at the wheel of the car, loaded them into the auto. Then the three other bandits who were outside the car ran back and climbed aboard, and the driver stepped on the gas and away they whirled."

"The car circled Cerrito hill and traveled along a little-used one-way road on the county line between Alameda and Contra Costa counties. I followed the auto on foot, and the tracks seemed to indicate that the men headed toward Oakland."

Passengers on the train were not molested by the bandits.

One of the passengers, Miss Mabel Skaale, 1027 Cragmont avenue, Berkeley, who commutes regularly on the train, as she works

DENTAL SURVEY REPORTED TO BE MADE

BERKELEY, Nov. 7.—As one of the first detailed surveys of a public health service for the purpose of setting standards by which the success or failure of such service may be better judged, Dean Guy C. Millberry of the University of California college of Dentistry is now preparing to publish a report on the dental public health service of the territory of Hawaii.

The survey was made at the request of Superintendent of Public Instruction Will C. Crawford with the support of Governor Lawrence M. Judd of the territory of Hawaii. The expense of the survey including two trips to the Hawaiian Islands this year was paid by Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter, wealthy residents of the territory. Carter is a former governor of the territory.

Follows Up Yale Survey
Dean Millberry's task was to follow up a survey of public dental health in the islands made by Dr. Ira W. Hisecock of Yale university, to suggest means of coordinating the health program throughout the islands, and to devise some means of measuring the value of the work to the public.

On his last trip to Hawaii Dean Millberry personally examined 459 children in 47 of the 181 schools in the islands, and investigated 17 of the territorial and private institutions in which dental service is rendered. From his examination Dean Millberry was able to construct a graph representing the composite mouth condition of the 459 children. With this as a basis, he believes, it will be possible to measure the effectiveness of the dental service from time to time by selecting another random group of 459 and constructing another composite graph. If the graph shows improvement the dental service has been effective, if it does not show improvement there will be a concrete indication that something is wrong and that money is being wasted.

Hawaii Leads in Dental Service
Dean Millberry believes that the territory of Hawaii is the best possible place for an experiment in the standardization of dental public health achievement, because the islands have a more adequate dental health service than any state in the United States. This is due, he says, to the progressive spirit of territorial leaders, particularly of Governor Judd who has expressed an opinion that health education and health maintenance should take precedence over other types of education in public schools.

Educational organizations have at times expressed similar opinions in the United States but little has been done to put the opinion into practice. For example, N. E. A. has designated seven objectives of teaching and the first one is health education. But like other objectives this one has been lost sight of.

The findings of Dean Millberry and his recommendations for the standardization of health service book form in San Francisco within the next few weeks.

One of his recommendations is that free dental service be offered only to those children whose parents will cooperate by taking care of the children's teeth at home and by furnishing the children an adequate diet, however plain it may be. Unless such co-operation is secured the filling of teeth is equivalent to pouring money into the ocean, Dean Millberry says, for cavities appear and teeth rot away as fast as they can be fixed.

She said she saw the bandits remove several sacks of mail, declaring that they moved very slowly as if they had plenty of time.

She said the bandits made no attempt to enter the passenger cars.

Shades Of '49

CITIZENS of Niland, Imperial Valley, blinked their eyes recently when they awoke to find miners panning gold dust in the main streets. Heavy rains had washed down silt from the desert. Unfortunately the deposit of gold proved only a small one, blasting the hopes of a revival of the days of '49.

GIRL SAVES BANK'S FUNDS

PLAINFIELD, Ill. Nov. 7.—UP—Funds of the Plainfield State bank were saved by Miss Florence Lund when she refused to open the teller's cage to three bandits today.

The bandits fired nine bullets at Miss Lund from close range, but they rebounded harmlessly from the bullet-proof glass of the cage.

As the bandit leader fired the first shot, Miss Lund stepped on a button in her cage, sending an alarm to the headquarters of the volunteer town guard.

Eight more shots in quick succession rattled against the glass of Miss Lund's cage when the leader saw her act. Not a mark was left on the glass.

The other two bandits, herding together several bank patrons with revolvers, then called the leader to "let it go," and they fled.

Miss Lund's alarm sent the town guard in almost instantaneous pursuit of the bandit automobile, which was driven away toward Aurora. The guard was established several months ago after the bank had been robbed of $3000.

"I didn't know how bullet-proof that glass was, but I'm glad my confidence in it was right," Miss Lund said.

Rabbis To Rule On Marriages Of Jewish Widows

PARIS, Nov. 7.—UP—Compulsory wig removal to prove Jewish widows are really orthodox, which is one of the most embarrassing duties of American consular officers abroad, may be ended in a suggested world congress of rabbis.

The suggestion is made by F. S. Goldman, Talmudic scholar, who strongly condemns the strict observance of chalitza for widowed Jewish women who wish to remarry.

According to the Jewish law and Talmud, a widow who wishes to remarry must first offer herself to her late husband's brother. She must kneel before him, and if he wishes to marry her, he raises her from the ground. If not, he goes through the motion of such refusal. This is the chalitza.

Because of the American quota law, Jewish brothers-in-law residing in the United States find it hard to comply with this requirement. Upon the request of several American rabbis, Congressmen Hamilton Fish of New York wrote to all American consulates asking that special visa facilities be accorded to Jewish widows.

The question was immediately raised, however, as to how the consuls were to determine whether the widow was really fulfilling the Jewish custom or attempting to evade the American quota. As all orthodox Jewish women must shave off their hair and wear a wig from the day of their marriage, it was suggested that the consuls prove the candidate's strict adherence by asking her to remove her wig. If she did there would be no question of not granting the visa.

Goldman, who lives in Paris, said that such practice was disgraceful, and it was up to the Jews themselves to arrange another method of performing the chalitza.

Income Taxes
In France High
PARIS.—French income taxes are nine times higher than those in the United States, according to Professor Robert Haig, Columbia university economist, a recent visitor in Paris. On the other hand Professor Haig calculates that the French tax on real estate is much less than in the United States. He said that an American receiving $7,710 yearly principally from dividends would pay an income tax of only $3.35, while a Frenchman would pay $1562.

ROTARY HEARS TALK ON PEACE

A denunciation of war was hurled in the speech of Dr. Stanley Armstrong Hunter, pastor of St. John's Presbyterian church, Berkeley, in his message to Richmond Rotary yesterday.

Dr. Hunter, an advocate of world peace, told of war that today was ravaging the world, even to the most remote places on the globe. His talk was well in line with the event to be celebrated next Tuesday when the twelfth anniversary of the signing of the armistice will be observed, club members declared.

During recent years Dr. Hunter has done much to promote internationally known peace workers, and his troupe of noted men when they toured Europe in the interest of promoting world brotherhood. More recently Dr. Hunter was a member of a party that visited Mexico in the same interest.

Dr. Hunter is a brother of Dr. John Hunter who delivered a series of addresses in the First Presbyterian church here recently.

Harry Plate was chairman of the day.

A girls' trio furnished the special music for the event. The members of the group were: Misses Eveleen Hebrard, piano; Marjorie Whittlesey, violin; Madeline Whittlesey, cello.

Three men became Rotary members. They were: A. W. Whitmore, Arthur Timmons, and Emmett Ward. Next Friday the meeting will honor the Vallejo Rotary. The gathering is to be held during the evening.

British Labor Government To Face Crisis

LONDON, Nov. 7.—UP—The Labor government of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald was believed today to be in a strong position to meet an expected political crisis and new general elections about Christmas.

The possibility that the cabinet will be defeated either shortly before or after Christmas was growing stronger daily and the split in the Liberal party, which has been supporting MacDonald, was believed to indicate certain defeat within a comparatively short time.

What They Really Earn

ONCE upon a time there was a girl who had read a large number of thrilling accounts, in newspapers and magazines, of the earnings of the famous women of the world. She got a tremendous kick out of the stories. Because she expected to be one of the women herself some day. She felt sure that she could be a feminine edition of a book by Horatio Alger—That, though beginning at the bottom of the ladder, she could rise to the top. For wasn't she willing to work? And wasn't she intelligent? And wasn't she ambitious? If boys with these characteristics got ahead, why shouldn't she? Oh, there isn't just one girl, there are many, many, MANY who cherish this fine plan—And not for worlds would we discourage them! Women's position in the business and professional world is growing stronger all the time. Only it is a fact that there's STILL plenty of room for improvement.

It is a fact that voracious but isolated success stories of a comparatively small number of women, as compared with all who work. Should not fool the ambitious youngster into believing That she is necessarily going to get a Grand Job and a Five-Figure Salary. If she really wants the low-down On what most business women are earning even yet. We recommend her to the discoveries made by Dr. Margaret Elliott and Grace E. Manson. They are members of the Bureau of Business Research at the School of Business Administration of the University of Michigan. They have made a survey of the work histories Of some fourteen thousand women, members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. We think this survey, "Earnings of Women in Business and the Professions," is so important That we are going to summarize the conclusions. Which will be of most interest to all women who work for money. "With a few spectacular exceptions," say Dr. Elliott and Miss Manson. "Women in business and the professions are not highly paid. "Women who are independently engaged in work of this sort "Earn considerably more than those employed on a salary basis. "About three-fourths of the women are employed in commercial, educational and manufacturing organizations. "More women are engaged in clerical work than in work of any other sort. "Next in importance is teaching. "With sales and publicity work in third place. "The chances of high earnings are about twice as great. "For women working in commercial and manufacturing organizations. "As for those employed in educational institutions. "And a much larger proportion of women in sales and publicity work "Have high earnings than in either clerical work or teaching. "Earnings increase with age up to fifty years. "Vary but little between fifty and sixty, and decline thereafter. "Earnings, living expenses, and savings increase with the size of the community in which the women are working. "If allowance is made for differences in age and experience. "Single women earn most and married women least. "While somewhere between fall the earnings of widows and women who are divorced or separated from their husbands. "Earnings tend to increase with years of general education. "Grade school, high school and college or university work. "For those who have had additional technical or professional education "Earnings also increase with years

Dinner Dress Should Have Becoming Waist

By Marguerite Barnes

NOTHING could be more uninteresting as a dinner gown than the frock at the upper left. As shown in the full-length view at the right it is a charming gown, with the interest centered on the back and skirt, and for that reason particularly appropriate for dancing. But for dining one should remember that only the bodice shows, and this should be the first consideration in choosing a formal dinner dress. Only a woman with perfect arms and shoulders can get away with the trying décolletage and bare simplicity of the first model. The off-the-shoulder bertha frock of soft lace at the lower left, complemented by appropriate jewelry is a much better choice. Following colors and the buttons of interesting design, such as laces, may also be utilized successfully for frocks of this type.

The Inexpensive Mirror

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WHAT cannot be done to make an ordinary mirror a thing of real beauty! You can take three of those twelve or fifteen inch mirrors that come for next to nothing in the most ordinary of wood frames, hinge them, one for the center and one each side, the hinges being placed about two or two and a half inches from the top and bottom. Paint the outer edge black, the flat top of the frames red, and then paint small black triangles, say, four across the top and bottom and the same spacing on the sides. Make these triangles point upward and paint them solid. Midway between them paint in in gold small asterisks or any other minute motif. Paint the inside rims gold, and there's a dressing table mirror for you!

Drape your mirror that is over the dressing table with a width of the silk with which the table is draped, catching it in the center and facing it at each end with a rosette of the silk, or rather, perhaps, a contrasting silk or a large covered button mold. If you please, you may simply take a full width of your silk or of your dressing table is done in cretonne, a half width, and make a twist of it and tack it to your mirror frame.

In cardboard you may make an inner frame and thereby transform the cheapest of mirror frames into the best looking mirrors imaginable. Cut one edge straight and cut the edges to dovetail perfectly at the corners. Otherwise the illusion of an expensive mirror is lost almost before you start to make it. Cut the other edge in shallow scallops and set the whole just inside the mirror frame. First, though before setting it in, the paste-

Matching Dance Partners

AN interesting method for matching dance partners is by word guessing. Take, for instance, the word turkey. Have six cutouts of the same design—a turkey would be suitable.

Write one letter of the word turkey on the back of each cutout, then number them in duplicates by writing 1, 2 and 3, respectively, on three turkeys and the same on the remaining three. Plus duplicate numbers in two different containers, one for the girls and one for the men. Do likewise with all the cutouts.

When ready to match partners pass the respective containers to the dancers and explain that those holding matching cutouts should gather in a group and guess the word. The accumulation of letters will form—those holding turkeys will discover R K Y T U E spells turkey and so on.

No one is allowed to dance until they have guessed the correct word and the first couple on the floor win the prize. The men and girls holding the matching cutouts numbered alike become dance partners.

Words appropriate to the occasion should be selected. For Thanksgiving pilgrims, puritan, etc., are suitable; for a birthday the name of the celebrant or the month, gift, etc., may be used. Words containing an even number of letters will pair the partners evenly. Puritan contains seven letters so there will be three couples and the lone lady who will wonder what her fate will be until the man holding the odd letter of the word partner comes along and they pair off. One set of cutouts of this sort in each container will be amusing. If the guests are few use short words.

Good to Know

When the floor squeaks find out just where it is, then apply a little liquid glue in the cracks between the boards. This can be easily done by dipping a knife blade in the glue and carefully putting it into the cracks and moving it back and forth slightly so the glue reaches the spot and sticks.

When buying knives select well-tempered steel for that is the only kind that will take and hold a sharp edge.

If you shellac and varnish the parchment shades, you can wash them with soap and water, but use a mild, white soap.

If you buy potatoes in large quantities you can preserve their flavor and prevent them from sprouting if you put a quantity of powdered charcoal in the bottom of the bin or box where you store them.

Scratches on hard colored wood can be effectively covered with iodine. Just put a swab of cotton on a toothpick, dip it in the iodine and apply to scratch and when dry rub with furniture polish.

Beauty Rinses for Your Hair

SHAMPOO is as good as its rinse. You may use the most marvelous hair and scalp cleansing preparation in the world, but if it isn't thoroughly rinsed out, it will clog the pores of the scalp, give a drab tone to the hair, and may cause no end of scalp trouble.

While we are on the subject of hair rinsing we feel we ought to say something about the quality and the character of the shampoo. Some are infinitely harder to rinse away than others, even when the rinsing is thorough and the proper soap. For example, those who use soap in cake form for their hair washing are making the rinse job just about doubly difficult. Indeed, it is doubtful if cake soap can be thoroughly removed from the scalp.

Use liquid soap or soap jelly always for your shampooing, or a good ready-made liquid preparation. If an oil treatment is given before the shampoo, or a tonic rub with a sticky or greasy preparation, try taking this excellent, but messy preliminary step the night before you shampoo. Otherwise, be more than usually sparing in your use of oil or tonic. A little of these things goes a long way anyhow, and a lot serves merely to make the hair dirtier and more difficult to wash.

Now about the kind of rinses. Let the first two rinsings be done with warm water and the aid of a shower or bath spray. The third and final rinse should be lukewarm and should contain some beneficial ingredient. To make the hair silky soft, add a teaspoonful of pure vinegar to the last bowl of rinse water. This is especially excellent if the water is alkaline, or "hard." The juice of half a lemon added to the final rinse also neutralizes any alkaline content and at the same time brings out the highlights in the hair. For reddish or golden brown hair, this is the perfect rinse. Raven-haired people may object to the lightening after effects of vinegar—doubtless as they are. There is a special type of rinse compounded for this rare blue-black hair, but you must purchase it ready prepared.

To bring out the gold in light hair, use a weak tea made from camomile. It has a decidedly enlivening effect upon the hair. . . . Yes, you do just as you do any other hair, but be sure that you use it weak. Of course the perfect rinse for red, reddened or reddish locks is the well-known henna rinse. But this is most successful in expert hands. Too much or too little of this magic herb can produce simply fantastic effects, than which nothing is poorer taste. Silver hair that craves to look dazzling needs nothing more than a few drops of bluing in the final rinse. Plain everyday household bluing is quite all right for the purpose.

TELLING THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

(Believing that football has come to stay, we have secured the services of an outstanding expert, J. Herman Sedlitz, to describe and interpret for our readers all the trick plays. Mr. Sedlitz is an old-time player and coach. As a roving half back he played for Carnegie and Vanderbilt. He also had offers from Morgan, Rockefeller and Mellon, but turned them down. When Mr. Sedlitz became a coach in 1912, his strategy revolutionized the game. Mr. Sedlitz introduced the jury system in football whereby twelve men could play on a side. By means of this formation, the twelve jurymen would split, allowing the ball carrier to go free. Nothing could then prevent a touchdown except a retrial or the quashing of the indictment. Mr. Sedlitz also conceived other gridiron stratagems. One of these was the double pass, admitting two persons except on Saturdays and holidays. In this series of articles he is describing trick plays that stick out in his mind. If you aren't following them you are missing half the fun of the present football season, if not more than one-half.)

INSIDE FOOTBALL

By J. Herman Sedlitz

BOTH as player and coach I was noted for my strategy. I remember when I first broke in on the old Ottumwa varsity squad. I started in at quarter back and they advanced me to half back. After a few sensational plays, I was promoted from half to full back. Before the game was over Coach Goldberg said I was too good for the team and offered to make me second vice president of the college. But I modestly declined this offer as I was not interested in becoming an educator, but wanted to follow the law. So Coach Goldberg got me a place on the bench.

One of the major games I took part in was Ottumwa played Bismarck College. These two were great rivals and always played on Thanksgiving Day, except when that fell on a Thursday. In that case they postponed it till Armistice Day.

The morning of the Ottumwa-Bismarck game I was uncertain which side I was going to play on, as I had not yet opened the bids. Finally I slit open the envelopes and Ottumwa was the low bidder, so I played for Bismarck. At that time I was a sensation of college football. Life, Puck and Judge had picked me for their All-America teams. The critics said I'd be another Red Grange if I only had a red wig, a faster pair of legs, a new body, a different heart and another set of brains.

With such a reputation as this, naturally all the rival players watched every move I made. In those days I used horseshoes for shoulder pads, just to bring me luck, and my elbows got good protection from a pair of sharp spikes. They called me the Iron Man.

Well, to get down to the game. Ottumwa and Bismarck got under way. It was one of Bismarck's half backs, but I am not sure which. The scorecard had me at right, but the players insisted I was wrong. On account of

Negativism

"NEELIE, wear your brown shoes," says mother. "No, I want my white ones," answers the three-year-old, very demurely. "But the brown ones are your play shoes," says mother. And now the battle is on! Fast and furious it rages. The result is a very hysterical Neelie and a most unnerved mother. "She's like that with everything," says this mother. "If I say, 'Wear your white dress,' she insists upon wearing her blue one. If I tell her to go out, she wants to stay in, but if I say she must stay in, she's all for going out." Neelie is certainly a most negativistic child. What does this "new" word mean? Exactly what it says. A negativistic person negates, says "No" to nearly everything. In olden days such a child would probably have been called contrary.

What makes children negativistic? Usually too much "bossing," too much being told what to do and particularly what not to do. Have you ever noticed how many times most mothers say, "Don't" and "Stop." "No"? It would be well to test one's self on this point, perhaps keeping a record for a time. As children emerge from babyhood they want to try out their own powers and explore the world about them. They want to run and climb and touch. These are healthy activities and we ought not to interfere with them. If we think there may be danger we can stand by ready to avert a tumble. If we do not want the young one to handle our bric-a-brac we can give him plenty of material which he may handle and manipulate. Let us keep the young one busy and guide him in a friendly, happy way. And let us leave him alone just as much as possible while he discovers a wonderful, thrilling world.

Punishment, too, usually draws out a child's resistance. "If you're bad to me I'll be bad to you," frequently seems to be a young one's attitude. A shrill, peremptory tone of voice also almost automatically calls out a "No" from some children. Then there's the child who constantly refuses to do what he is told because he enjoys the scene that invariably follows. He likes the arguing and the excitement. He feels a sense of power when he sees his big mother so visibly upset. How foolish to have these scenes! Whenever possible, we should allow the child to exercise his own judgment. When we feel that this would be unwise, we should quietly insist that the youngster do as we request, always carefully explaining the reason for our stand. If we have always treated our young ones with consideration and fairness, they will usually be most reasonable.

Little Gifts of Jewelry

EARLY Christmas shoppers are now selecting their gifts or at least compiling their Christmas shopping lists, and this is often a tremendous task.

If you are considering the gift of jewelry and cannot decide what it shall be, why not make it a clip? It will be a safe gift, for they are using clips for everything, shoes, bags, belts, gloves, the décolletage, etc., so you will have a large variety to select from.

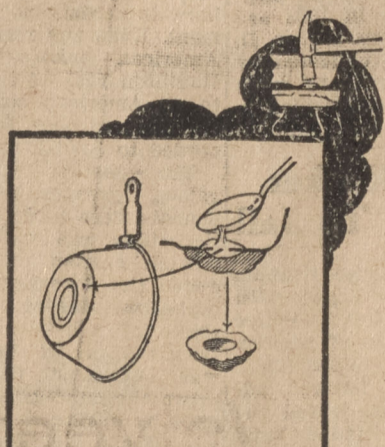

For shoes there are the bowknots in rhinestones, and when clipped at one side of the slipper front are very chic. For the décolletage you will need two clips, and these come in rhinestones and colored jewel effects. By the way, the ruby is making a comeback and is much in evidence among the displays of this winter's jewelry.

To Mend Enamel Ware

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

PINHOLES have a way of forming in perfectly fresh enamelware, thus making it necessary to discard the utensil or else to repair it. When the leaky article is one of a set it is annoying as well as expensive to replace a whole set just because of one little pinhole.

Miss Home Mechanic can repair the article in a few minutes, however, if she will follow the instructions given below: First polish the outer and inner surface of the article for about an inch around the hole. Use a piece of fine emery cloth for this purpose. Then enlarge the hole with the point of the can opener until it is about one-eighth of an inch in size. Next mix a little flour into a stiff putty and mold it into the shape shown in the drawing. The mold is then stuck on the article over the hole, as illustrated. A piece of soft solder about the size of a lima bean is melted in an iron stirring spoon over the gas stove and poured through the hole into the mold in the manner outlined in the drawing. A little button of solder has been formed over and around the hole both outside and inside of the utensil by this operation. If the work has been delicately performed the button is about the proportion in thickness and size to a 1/8-inch hole as has been pictured. The button is not soldered to the utensil, however, and must be riveted to make the joint tight. This is done by lightly tapping the button on a flatiron with a hammer as shown.

When buying knives select well-tempered steel for that is the only kind that will take and hold a sharp edge.

If you shellac and varnish the parchment shades, you can wash them with soap and water, but use a mild, white soap.

If you buy potatoes in large quantities you can preserve their flavor and prevent them from sprouting if you put a quantity of powdered charcoal in the bottom of the bin or box where you store them.

CREW REFUSES TO LEAVE SHIP

sitated removal of the Tamiagua's crew, there was still hope that the tanker might be swung clear.

The Tamiagua grounded on Pescadero reef, mile and a half south of the little town of Pescadero and about six miles north of Pigeon Point.

Dense fog shrouded the coast, and the first warning that Captain George Anderson had of the fact that he was off his course, was when the jarring impact of the rocks told him that the vessel had run aground.

Near Wreck

The scene of the wreck was not far from the spot where last year the Standard Oil tanker Dodd rammed the coastwise steamer San Juan, with a loss of 76 lives.

After only the briefest radio advice of the disaster could be flashed, the ship's radio and lighting system were put out of commission.

The early morning hours brought three tugs and two Coast Guard cutters, Chokila and Shawnee, to the scene. In the dense fog one of the tugs cruised more than an hour before it could locate the dark bulk of the tanker, 200 yards off shore.

Quick as were the rescue vessels to arrive, San Francisco newspapermen were quicker.

Scribes Talk to Ship

United Press staff correspondents, routed from sleep, drove 30 miles down the foggy skyline road to the shore opposite the stranded vessel.

Jacques D'Armand, one of three United Press men at the scene, familiar with radio operation, managed to get into communication with the operator aboard the tanker.

"Are you in danger?" D'Armand flashed through the fog by using continental code, sending the letters out to the ship by means of his automobile's headlights.

Line Fast

"We are okay," the ship's operator signalled back, using a flashlight.

The radio operator then asked if a line that they had floated ashore was received. D'Armand responded that the line had been caught, and was firmly secured.

Jack Drice, a taxi driver, had dared the freezing water to swim out and get the end of the line that the crew had floated ashore.

It was planned to utilize the line to rig up a breeches buoy should an emergency force abandonment of the vessel.

Grounded At Bow

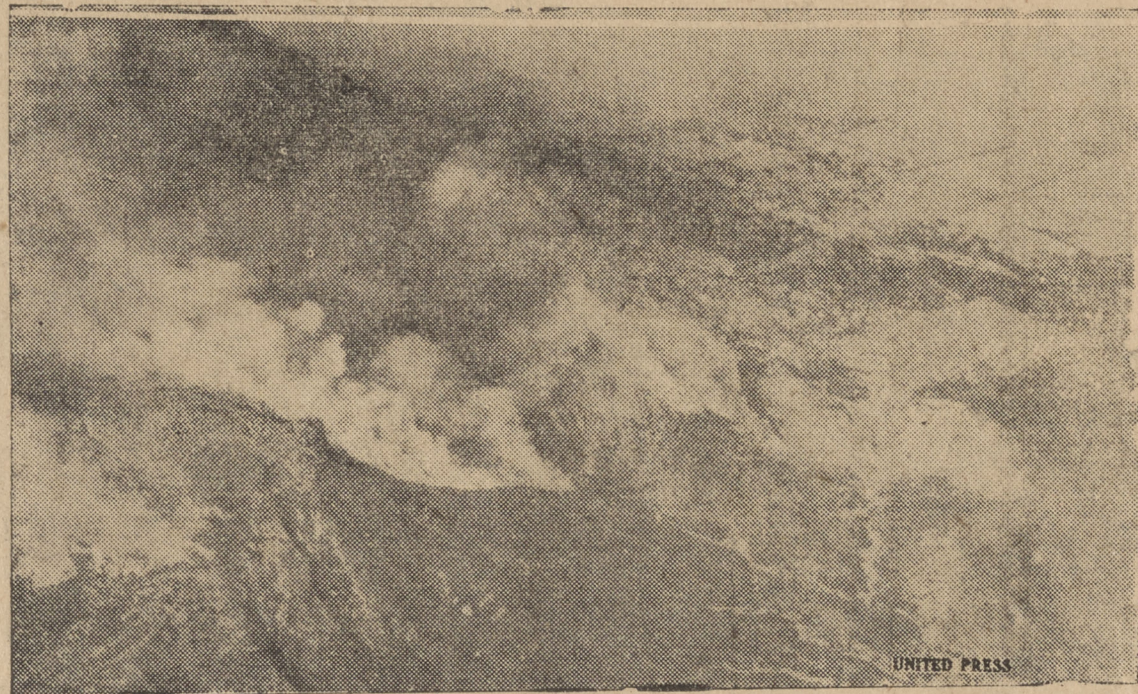

Two hours later the first of the tugs appeared on the scene, and it was decided to wait until morning before salvage efforts were attempted, as the crew was in no immediate danger.

The vessel had grounded by the bow, while the stern end, buffeted by the waves, was swinging clear. Although the hull was buckled and considerable water had been shipped, the tanker was sturdily built, and it was thought that it would not break up under the steady pounding.

The Tamiagua, largest tanker ever built on the Pacific coast, was built in Oakland in 1921. She is 500 feet long, with a breadth of 71 feet, three inches, and a depth of 31 feet, six inches.

At the time of the accident, she was enroute to southern California in ballast.
